Edition #2

Welcome to CQMRG!

Welcome to the second edition of our CQMRG newsletter. These newsletters are designed to keep you up to date with events, meetings, and social networking events organised by CQMRG and our affiliates, developments in projects we are involved in, and general news from the industry.

We hope you enjoy reading this newsletter and we welcome any comments and suggestions you have for items to include or exclude.

Happy reading!

Seeking additional MRC-Wiki working group members

The UQ SMI research team are seeking additional volunteers for the MRC-wiki working group to assist with the current phase of the project.

JOB DESCRIPTION – MRC-WIKI WORKING GROUP MEMBER

Key tasks: any or all of the following:

- write the occasional article;
- comment on articles written by others;
- complement, challenge and discuss content;
- provide feedback to researchers on the utility and appearance of the MRC-Wiki;

- create energy within CQMRG in preparation for taking over the MRC-wiki in early 2017 to help iron out any kinks while we still have research funding :-)

MRC-Wiki "call to arms"

Many thanks to those who have already contributed, we still need more CQMRG members to write articles and interact with the MRC-wiki.

This is a critical phase for this ACARP project where the UQ SMI research team can provide support but CQMRG need to be actively including content.

We are working on some 'prizes' for participation. There will be regular prizes for active participants... (it remains a mystery what those gifts will be....be ready to be surprised).

All of the information and assistance you need to register and access can be found at the MRC-Wiki site.

Many thanks

Corinne, Vanessa, Paul, Thomas, Carol

CQMRG 2016 Springsure workshop

Our 2016 Springsure workshop, hosted by Glencore saw 45 participants tour the Rolleston Open Cut with highlights being some steep slope rehabilitation, void completion and plenty of discussion about drainage and vegetation management.

Many thanks to Phil Price, Pieter Swart, Ken Dixon and the local site team for organising and hosting.

Presentations and candid photos are accessible on the CQMRG website.

All comments, questions and articles you want others to upload please send to mrc-wiki@uq.edu.au

[Ed. note: please help keep the research team busy so they stop doing this! >]

Pirate Cap'n Stuarrrrt wants you scoundrels to be a wrrritin' MRrrrrC-Wiki arrrticles!

Mine rehabilitation postgraduate scholarships

The Coal Minesite Rehabilitation Trust Fund (CMRTF) provides funding of up to $35,000 per annum to support postgraduate researchers working in the field of minesite rehabilitation.

The 2017 funding round will be open to applications in September.

There's some exciting research happening in this space which we'll be looking to promote as it's published. For a few examples, visit the CMRTF website here.

We want your feedback!

CQMRG wants to make sure that the events, networking and meetings we organise meet our memberships expectations.

Remember to stay in touch by email, through our website or via our LinkedIn group.
